Experience

- › As an executive coach Anne brings more than 25 years' experience developing people to her clients.
- › Recent assignments include successfully coaching more than 180 participants in two Commonwealth Department's Executive Leadership programs; Senior Executive coaching (Band 1 – 3); coaching partners in a professional services firm and senior managers in private sector and non-government organisations. Her coaching approach is grounded in the practical reality of her clients' complex and fast changing world.
- › Anne is passionate about supporting senior executives and managers tackle difficult personal and organisational challenges with renewed energy and purpose, larger perspectives and new skills. Her coaching methodology is informed by adult development theory, adaptive leadership, appreciative inquiry, action learning and Immunity to Change.
- › As joint owner of a specialist consultancy firm for eight years Anne played an active role in the design and development of leadership, performance management and coaching programs. Early in her career Anne was a senior physiotherapist in the disability sector; supporting families, mentoring graduates and developing and facilitating community awareness programs and workshops.

Impact

“Out of the chaos of competing priorities, more mindful of their inner selves and their outward opportunities, Anne seamlessly helps people define and achieve their goals.

She effortlessly helps you discover forward pathways, creating a strengths based virtuous circle - casting aside downward spirals of uncertainty and procrastination.

Anne travels this journey with you, engendering the confidence to lead, sometimes from the front - sometimes from behind.

Anne Sautelle doesn't motivate you. You motivate yourself, because she has helped you reach in and find what you truly believe in.”
